

Graduate Students and Early Career Psychologists Section Division 12, Society of Clinical Psychology

Campus Representative Program

What is the Campus Representatives Program? The Campus Representatives Program consists of graduate students, postdoctoral fellows, and early career psychologists across the country interested in promoting the field of Clinical Psychology by disseminating Division 12 materials and hosting proposed activities for their universities and psychology programs. The estimated time commitment for this position is 1-2 hours per month.

Who is eligible to apply to become a Campus Representative? Current graduate student members of Section 10 and Division 12. Early career psychologists and postdoctoral fellows are also encouraged to apply if interested in promoting clinical psychology at their workplace. For more information, please contact Jill Morris, PhD, LP (Section Representative) directly at jill.morris25@gmail.com.

How can I apply? There are two options: 1) Ask your department for nominations or 2) self-nominate. Then, fill out the application below. You will also need a signature from your Director of Clinical Training (or equivalent) at the bottom of this form to indicate your program's support of your interest in serving as a Campus Representative.
